ENCLOSURE NO. V. – SAFETY AWARENESS

1. Safety awareness

The first condition of real safety awareness that we have to be aware what value do the data managed by us represent for us and for crimes.

If we are not aware of this then we will be kept in false safety awareness, we will be confident, but will be panicked when the trouble occurs.

Every internet user – consequently the users of MEDISTANCE electronic administration service – must be aware, when using the system, of the security technology and other risks of the internet connections. We should like to draw attention to secure and careful use of our services in this document. We have implemented a lot of protection measures for your security when using MEDISTANCE service, but your participation is obviously needed in order to reduce the risks when using the system - to the minimum.

2. Data protection

Please read the Privacy Policy at our Website/Application; it declares the principles determining our policy in respect of the personal data and show our everyday practice and services, when we ask for personal data of our visitors and declare the purpose and use of these data, as well as, preservation and saving of the personal data.

3. Protection of the computer

It is recommended to protect your computer when using the service, and usually when using internet, to protect against possible viruses with antivirus programs and with the firewalls against intrusions.

The viruses can damage the computer, they can destroy the stored data and it is also not excluded that your confidential data and codes used in course of use are transmitted to incompetent persons who can misuse them. Any software that can be downloaded from the internet can contain virus. An e-mail can have an attachment with viruses. Please get convinced that your computer has an appropriate antivirus program filtering also the attachments. New viruses are born every day, that is why it is worth of using the latest versions and update the virus definitions every day. As soon as new viruses are developed, new solutions must be found against them.

When you enter the internet without security your computer can be illegally attacked and you would not even know about it. There are continuously available firewalls on the internet which can be downloaded and used either free of charge and they provide for appropriate protection against DoS attacks, curious spyware programs and Trojan programs. In order to achieve higher level of security we recommend to regularly download the accessible security updates and correcting versions available for your operation system and browser, and to adjust the data security setting of your browser to the required highest security level. In this case the program warns you before opening any content which would potentially cause damage when using the browser. Security can be further increased - if the running but not needed applications - are shut-down on your computer.

4. Management of the subscriber's identification and password

You are identified in the system with your Subscriber's identification and password, so it is of key importance to keep these two sensible data safely, so that nobody could get it.

Do not tell it anyone, not even the very reliable friends!

Your valid password cannot be asked from you not even by the authorities or our colleagues.

Try to remember your password! It is the best if you do not write it anywhere, but if you still do it please ensure that:

- it would be no way obvious, what the written character line is good for;
- and keep your password in safe place.

The system does not enforce regular password change, but we recommend changing of your password every month for the purpose of the possible highest security.

5. Using of the service at a public place

Please refrain from using the service in the presence of others or at a public place (e.g. internet coffee shop), if possible.

If you still use our service this way, your cooperation is also needed in addition to the security measures of the system. In this case – should the possibility of others' access to your computer exists – the following precautions are recommended to be carried out:

Login function of the service makes it possible for you not to give your secret password on the transaction and the query screen each case until logout. Important! If you use our internet service at a public place we do not recommend using of this comfort function, you have to give your identification in all cases and for each transaction. Due to the specificities of HTML technology the page visited by the Subscriber are stored in the Temporary Internet Files library of the computer. With default settings of the browsers it is done in case of using each HTML-based internet sites, so in case of using MEDISTANCE, too. In case you use our service not with your own computer, it is recommended not to permit storing of temporary internet file in the browser, or if you cannot disable this function, it is better not to use the public computer.

Please check that nobody watches you when giving your password and code and please never disclose them. Should you feel that incompetent persons became aware of your password, please change it through our system.

Never leave your computer unattended in course of using MEDISTANCE!

6. Finishing use of the service

It is important to leave the service using EXIT button and not by closing the browsing window! In this case the encrypted relation established by the login will be finally and safely interrupted.

In case you used our service in the presence of others or at a public place and you permitted storing of the Temporary internet files, then it is recommended to delete the content of the Temporary internet file library in the browsers. Deletion is to be done differently in case of the different browsers; in case of the most frequently used browsers it is carried out as follows:

Internet Explorer: Tools, Internet options page, Temporary Internet files, Delete files.

Mozilla: Page Edit / Preferences, choosing option Advanced / Cache, function Clear Cache

Google Chrome: Preferences, History / Clear browsing data

Of course, if you use our Service from a computer under your control, the mentioned security steps are not inevitably required, but they are recommended.

7. Social engineering

Social engineering is using of the intention of people for natural confidence.

Hackers or ill-intention people frequently use this method for incompetent access to computers and for getting information.

Social engineering uses not the hardware, software or network failure, but the weaknesses of the human nature for breaking computers. By using this anybody with minimum hacking capacity can penetrate into a system, considered to be safe, and can access data, can modify or delete them. The most characteristic crime of this type is „phishing“, when the tricksters make the Subscriber – by different methods – (phone call, e-mail) telling his password, giving confidential data of downloading and running applications – similar to governmental electronic administration – by using the link sent in the e-mail. The program monitoring the keyboard invisibly records how do we use the keyboard, what bank passwords and codes do we type. These monitoring programs invisibly enter our computers, but it does not mean that we could not protect against them. Complete elimination of the risks is not possible, but it can be significantly reduced if you follow the below advice:

Never answer MEDISTANCE e-mails if you are required to give confidential information as to the access! Never open attachments of e-mails before carefully checking them with the antivirus and anti-spyware program! Never give confidential information in case you are contacted by phone! Sometimes you may be contacted and asked for giving confidential data, referring to change of the password or maintenance etc. but the password belonging to your personal access must be known only by you. The system administrators or maintainers do not need your password, since they have their own identification, ensuring system rights for them, and they can settle everything without knowing your password. Be distrustful if the system administrator asks for your password! Never give the name and the password of the Subscriber!

Be distrustful if you get an e-mail or a phone call, informing you that your data related to the MEDISTANCE service have been acquired by incompetent person(s) and asking you to contract the CUSTOMER SERVICE at the given phone number. Never do this, rather notify us immediately at our e-mail address help@medistance.com, or by phone number 06-1-453-7122 (international +36 1 453 7122

You can protect against data theft by phone with due caution and against electronic data theft by joint using and continuous updating of the latest antivirus, fire wall and anti-spyware programs. However all these will be helpful only if you update the operation system, too and switch off the non-desired services, if possible.

Namely MEDISTANCE should be used without visiting other sites, always entering the address into the browser or using from the menu item „Favourites“ or using from an electronic letter which is surely guiding you to the page of MEDISTANCE. Nowadays the offenders give internet addresses which are slightly different from the real address, so they are misleading. It is practical to run an updated antivirus and anti-spyware program before connecting to MEDISTANCE.

When using our service, please check before login – that your computer communicates with the appropriate server! You have to check the following:

Address of the Website/Application: http/www. Medistance.eu. Before giving any sensible data of you get convinced that your internet connection is safe, the address begins with https (except for service package of different type) and it is also indicated by the small padlock at the right bottom of the browser.
